Transition to Electronic Banking Important Update for Members and Clubs

DOGS NSW wishes to remind members and Affiliate Clubs that the organisation will be moving fully to electronic banking and will progressively phase out the acceptance of cheques.

This initiative was originally approved by the DOGS NSW Board following a recommendation from the Finance Committee in September 2018. Since that time, DOGS NSW has encouraged the use of electronic payment methods, and the majority of members and Clubs have already transitioned successfully.

To complete the transition, the Finance Committee has now recommended the following implementation dates:

- Affiliate Clubs: electronic banking only from 1 July 2027
- Members: electronic banking only from 1 July 2027

The move to electronic banking will provide a more efficient and secure payment process while reducing the administrative costs associated with cheque handling, manual reconciliation, bank processing fees, and staff safety and travel for cheque deposits.

This direction also aligns with broader banking industry changes, including the Reserve Bank of Australia's announced phase-out of cheques by 2030.

DOGS NSW will continue to provide information and support to assist members and Clubs with the transition. Further details regarding payment methods and processes will be communicated closer to implementation dates.
